CONGRATULATIONS TO OUR 2014 GRADUATES

Prof. Nene Pimentel, Chairman of the Pimentel Institute for Leadership and Governance (standing) cites the importance of education as a means not only to improve one's lot, but more importantly, to be of service to others, to the community and to the nation. Also present was commencement guest of honor DOJ Secretary Leila De Lima, and other officials of the University of Makati, held on April 4, 2014.

UMAK HOLDS COMMENCEMENT RITES

By Jay Dejaresco

The University of Makati held its 41st commencement exercises last April 2, 3, and 4 at the Umak Grand Theatre, with the theme "Trailblazing Innovations in the Philippine Education."

Justice Secretary Leila De Lima graced the ceremonies together with local officials of Makati City.

University President Prof. Tomas B. Lopez, Jr. led other professors and faculty, and department heads in recognizing the achievements of the students of the University.

He also announced the

CONSCIENCE

Its been relied upon as the inner voice that guided the early Christian martyrs to die for their beliefs.

Also for the more recent Christian missionaries who dared to bring the word of God into forbidden lands.

Islam too would have its list of its believers who fought against "infidels" and who died believing in the promptings of their consciences.

In the country today, perhaps, it can be said that the struggle for the liberation of one's conscience found vindication in the Supreme Court's recent ruling on the RH law.

Some legal observers conclude that the compulsory aspects of the RH Law have been removed by the decision.

For instance, the provision that compel doctors and hospitals to provide medication - no matter if abortifacient - to women in need has

PIMENTEL CITES VALUE OF EDUCATION

By Clarisse Aquino

In today's world, education is remains a well-nigh tool of upward mobility that can be ignored only at one's peril.

The importance of having an education was highlighted by Professor Aquilino Nene Pimentel when he addressed the graduates of the University of Cabuyao Laguna last April 11.

"Education is important because it gives you the power of critical understanding of the issues involved in our development as a nation," he stressed.

In addressing the new graduates, Pimentel said, "Your critical understand-strides undertaken by his administration in its commitment to continually raise the standard of education.

“To be at pace with the fact changing landscape of the education system, the School of Continuing Professional Education (SCOPE) was established and it has proven to be a robust innovation,” Lopez announced.

This innovation received positive response not only from the academic personnel but also from the outside clientele due to the novelty of its curricular design, Lopez said.

Lopez took pride in the gains of the university’s executive programs which have been effective in laying the groundwork for its success in the entire Philippines through the local governments.

He also disclosed that one of the strategies being adopted by the University is the blended learning that combines the best features of the traditional classroom with the power of the internet and the industry exposure through the Dualized Training System.

ing of the issues involved in our country’s development should provide you with the wisdom to know what is most needed to overcome the problems of poverty, disease, ignorance, corruption, law and order and the threatened dominance of our country’s development by foreign interests.”

“Our people know that they or their children should have some kind of formal education to get out of the mire of poverty.” He said.

Training vs. Education

He also reminded the graduates that they have been equipped by the University not only with training, but education.

“Training,” as some academics have pointed out, merely teaches people how to “get along” within the existing social order, Pimentel explained.

“It marginalizes the critical side of education and therefore actually “disempowers people by reducing them to (be) ... mere instruments of labor,” he added

“If your University had merely given you training, our country may not have as much need for your presence here,” he said.

Prof. Nene Pimentel was guest speaker during the 10th Commencement Exercises at the University of Cabuyao. (April 11)

More important Pimentel, exhorted students to always do their best.

Kindling of flame

He expounded on the thoughts of the Greek philosopher Socrates who said that “Education is not the filling of a vessel, but the kindling of a flame.”

Pimentel explained that education is not meant to fulfill one’s selfish goals, but as a means to be able to care for and protect our surroundings, our society, and our nation.

He concluded by reminding the graduates that they should thank everyone who had helped them get to where they are.

Principally, those who had extended them generous assistance, their parents, other members of the family, their school and most important the Lord who made everything possible.

been declared unconstitutional. So was the section of the law that required the teaching of sex education to children of school age without the need of their parents’ consent.

That is a good development.

Still, much has to be done by those who in conscience believe that it is not right for pharmacies to sell drugs that kill the unborn to just any Juan or Juana who may want to buy them.

And for the interested, the venue for the struggle has shifted from the Judiciary to the Legislature.

And there the voice of the Clergy AND the Laity must be heard. Not singly. But jointly. And starting from the parish.

For that is what an organized church is all about - shepherds and sheep.

Nowadays, though, the shepherds must listen to the discordant sounds emanating from the sheep, discern what’s beneficial from the useless, and guide them to pasture accordingly.

Otherwise, discord, not harmony, will be the rule of the day.

Nobody likes that, for sure.

A TRUE STORY FOR NEW GRADS YOUNG PROS, and their Parents

By Bernie Lopez

The following message to the graduates is reprinted here with the kind permission of its author, who may be contacted at eastwindreplyctr@gmail.com:

I make you blind so you can see I bring you darkness so you can seek My light for it is in darkness that you begin to see the Light when I was in New Jersey on a quick visit i met a Filipino single mother, Jessica who lived with her only son, Jason

Jessica hardly knew me I dropped by just to pick up something for my sister but it was as if we were friends from way back she was hungry to talk to someone as much as I was and so she began unraveling her life to me

Jason was the only son fatherless but rich because her mother had her own dental clinic

Jason was spoiled by her mom he had his own car she cooked for him he never washed dishes she could not even ask him to mow the lawn

It was the only way she knew how to pour her love for him he was her entire world

Jason was extremely bored with life Jessica could sense it he looked far away for hours to the horizon lost in thought Jessica kept asking the Lord what was His will what would He want Jason to be she asked Jason if he wanted to try to get into Harvard for his masters and doctorate Jason was at the top in his class Jason frowned he wanted something different from what all other kids go through after college

Quite by accident Jessica's brother dropped by and told her how changed his daughter was after being a peace corps volunteer for a year when Jessica suggested this to Jason he jumped on it because he was bored it was a chance to see the outside world in no time he was on his way to Guatemala

For the first time Jason saw the meaning of poverty and pain in their rawest form immersed in a marginal farm community coming from the luxury of home in the states he was shocked to see kids who did not even have shoes who would miss class because they had no food fighting the discomfort of mosquito bites and learning to sleep on a hard bed Jason's heart started to open up for the first time in his life he realized how much power he had to change people and the world *sometimes you stumble on a rare opportunity you never thought was so golden until you taste the bittersweet experience ALWAYS TAKE THE RISK TO GRAB SUCH GEMS

that may never come by again pray for discernment and think it over well the road less travelled by can offer magic beyond your comprehension and imagination* his six months in Guatemala was enough to change him forever he grew fond of the poor children when finally he had to go home he had silent tears as the children embraced him for the last time

coming home to new jersey the first thing Jason asked her mom was if she wanted him to mow the lawn Jessica fell into tears she knew Guatemala gave her a better son she knew the Lord answered her prayers things were never the same Jason was no longer a spoiled child it takes awareness of suffering to awaken one's restless soul it took poverty to enrich Jason it took the darkness all around to make him realize that the light was inside him a long time ago he just ignored it the Lord works in mysterious ways Jessica prayed for a career for his son the Lord gave it on a silver platter Jason would not exchange Guatemala for a doctorate decree at Harvard it was the best thing that ever happened to him he found a 'career'

Jason did not make a quick decision what to do with himself but he knew it would come in time sometimes it is premature to dive into a career and change your mind later sometimes the best way to plan is not to plan for a while at least when your spirit is still fermenting

this is because the basis of career decisions is theoretical rather than experiential theoretical wisdom at Harvard could never match experiential wisdom in the ghettos of Guatemala my advise to parents don't give your son a car as a graduation gift or a house as a wedding gift you are just enticing him more into the world of materialism that is plaguing our society today whose values destroy rather than build people intervene in your children's spirituality perhaps an air ticket to somewhere would open his eyes and open his soul what better gift can you give more spiritual than material do not seek to understand incomprehensible mysteries such as how and when the rain and wind will come you know not the work of the Lord rather sow your seeds wherever you have land if you know not where the flood will fall let the Lord decide your fate and just do your part

Ecclesiastes 11:1-8 / eastwind vanity of vanities, all things are vanity rivers go to the sea yet the sea is never full words are eloquent yet empty of meaning the eye is never satisfied, the ear hears a lot what is crooked cannot be made straightened what is missing cannot be supplied the greatest wisdom i have learned is that all wisdom is chasing the wind in much wisdom there is much sorrow he who strives for wisdom strives for grief

Ecclesiastes 1:1-8, 14-18

I am the Way and the Truth and the Life no one comes to the Father but through Me if you know Me then you know My Father

John 1:6-7
